2022.August 30th
Hi, Takashi.
Thank you for sending me the pictures of Okayama. I really like them because of the old cityscape and garden.
By the way, I was ( ① ) that Japan has four seasons. As you know, it is very hot in the Philippines. The Philippines has a tropical monsoon climate throughout a year. We have only two seasons ; rainy season and dry season. The rainy season is [ A ] June to November. So, it rains heavily during the time. The dry season is [ A ] December to May. It is cooler than rainy season, so I like dry season better in this country. We don't have winter, and it doesn't snow here. If I can go to Japan, I want to have a snowball fight someday.
Having four seasons sounds great. Which season do you like best? Do you have a dry season in Japan? If you do, when does your dry season begin?
I have one more question to ask. How do you spend winter days? I want you to tell me about it!
Thanks,
Your friend Joseph

※old cityscape 「古い町並み」 a tropical monsoon climate 「熱帯モンスーン気候」
the rainy season 「雨季(梅雨)」 the dry season 「乾季」 a snowball fight 「雪合戦」

その③

※ 答えはすべて解答用紙に記入しなさい。

2022.September 1st
Dear Joseph
I'm sorry for late replying to you. ( ② ) are you doing? The names of the town and garden in the photos are "Bikan Historical Quarter" and "Korakuen". Please try to go there because it is a very good place.
③ In Japan, you can clearly see the difference on seasons throughout a year. In fact, Japan has "Shiki", the four seasons : spring, summer, autumn, and winter.
I like winter best. The good thing about winter is that there are many events at that time. It is really cold and it sometimes snows ( ④ ) we have Christmas, New Years, and so on. In winter, I enjoy skiing, snowboarding, and snowball fighting.
⑤ ( me / the dry season / tell / please / you / are / doing / what / in ). I'm ( ⑥ ) for your help.
Thanks,
Your friend Takashi
